

Wednesday 4 September 2019

Time	Title and Synopsis
9.30am	Arrival
10.00am	Welcome from Professor Sue Backhouse, Clean Sport Alliance Chair Protecting clean sport is our collective mission. It is vital that the role and voice of core stakeholder groups align to rebalance the focus from catching and punishing to helping and protecting athletes and those around them.
10.20am	Through the looking glass It's time to change the lens and commit to action. Athletes deserve more. They start in sport clean and every effort should be made to keep them clean. To do that we must be open and honest about the challenges we face as part of the anti-doping system. More time, more resource and more investment is required to prevent doping. Athlete insight, quality education and academic research must be the driving force to create change.
10.40am	What is clean sport to athletes? Hear directly from international athletes on their personal views of clean sport, what it means, is it important, does it matter and how is it defined? This will be a rare opportunity to listen and gather athlete insight from those in the room and those who formed athlete panels in each of the five European countries. Athlete led, athlete insight, athletes heard.
11.25am	Clean Sport Sentiment A summary of recent research findings from five international athlete focus groups, exploring athletes' views and opinions of clean sport and anti-doping. What does this mean for the clean sport community?
11.40am	Break

12.00pm	Mind the gap How evidenced-based is our work? This session will showcase anti-doping research and highlight what is currently being done, core themes and where there are gaps.
12.30pm	Morning reflections and action Professor Sue Backhouse will summarise the mornings sessions including the any key reflections and actions for the collective network.
12.45pm	Lunch
1.45pm	Question time – let’s talk An opportunity to engage in informal conversation across our three main stakeholder groups. Walk and talk to experience our mini-panels representing, athletes, NADOs and academics. This will be a great opportunity to ask questions.
2.45pm	Policy, practice, people Policy makers share their view on the importance of refocusing the clean sport lens and the role of education in supporting this. Explore the latest policy developments and insight into the future, including the new World Anti-Doping Code and International Standard for Education.
3.15pm	Break
3.35pm	Making the connection A core outcome of the RESPECT project is a new knowledge exchange platform enabling us to connect when travelling along different lines – education, policy, research, athlete voice. We will share ideas and concepts of how we think this can work in practice, seeking views to ensure it is both relevant and useful.
4.00pm	Next stop Slovenia 2020 A wrap-up of our shared experience and how we move forward together. Let’s keep listening, learning and leading into 2020 and beyond.